

This year's vacation was very interesting because it was spent outside the city, at my aunt's. I really like to go there because it is never boring there. Most of the time the weather was fine, so I used to bike a lot on trips. This photo shows one of my favorite places. I am standing there on the bridge and there is a river below it. There are beautiful landscapes of nature all around. It is green everywhere, there are trees and plants. I love looking at the sunsets there and taking pictures and then smiling at them. This place is magical, it gives you energy and I recommend it for rest and a good time.
