

The smell of Christmas.

Once upon a time There was a Christmas time. Everything was so bright and snow was falling. Everyone has felt a smell of Christmas then .I remember those day when i was getting home from work lately crossing park being so tired and pensive . Suddenly i woke up when i got to the main street and have seen these all buildings vividly decorated and i couldn't take my eyes off of them. Many colors,children playing around by making snowman and throwing snowballs. I was walking that street admiring what its happening around. I thought to myself to just get some gifts for my family so came in one of the shops.There were so many typical smells like chocolate ,tangerines and mistletoe there .Its been just a magic!.Finally i got home.First thing i noticed then it was the fairy lights put on our family house.Sculpture of Santa was climbing the chimney but his reindeers waited below.straight away i felt so many christmas in the air inside.My mom was cooking in the kitchen but the table was stretched and filled with food throught the house.There were so many dishes like fish ,dumplings many soups salads and cakes .i went toward the living room where there was so much intense smell of christmas tree that my father cut it a day before. Nobody didn't get to decorate it so immediately got down the business. The smell of christmas is also people,mood,decorations,gifts,traditions and everything what it makes this time amazing and magical.
