TOPIC: The child was holding a letter to Santa Claus.

He knew that his dream could not come true, but he strongly believed it.

That was a cold night in the middle of December. A ten-year-old boy was waiting for the meeting with Santa Claus in front of his house. He wished only one thing but he knew that his dream couldn't come true, but he still believed it. He knew that Santa Claus could do everything, that's why he believed in his dream. He was the last person who was waiting for today's meeting. The door opened, that was time for him. He got in and saw amazing furniture and luxury house, he had never seen something like that before. When he felt this magic he started strongly believing in his dream.

Santa Claus told him to sit on his knees and eat some cookies. After that he started reading his letter. It was written: "Dear Santa Claus, I was very courteous this year and my behavior was very good. This year I have got only one thing that I want, this is...." And he couldn't say that word because of a shot. Someone shot to Santa Claus and killed him. In one moment the whole magic blew up and the whole magic disappeared. The kid screamed and shouted as loud as he could and then he ended reading his wish: "I only wanted to set the whole world free from violence...Why did this happen?"

And then he woke up and he thought that was the scariest dream he had ever had. But today was the day- Christmas Eve and the whole magic of this day came back.
