

„There was gift for him under the Christmas Tree. How could they forget?“

The Johnson's family was the biggest family in town. There was mum-Caren, dad-Jason and they were happily married. They even had five kids: Penny- the oldest one, Dave, Jimmy, Patric, and the youngest of them was Scott. He wasn't normal, like the others, he was even special.. Everyone was telling him that he was boring and hopeless. On the day of Christmas he walked out of his room and went straight to the living room where there was a Christmas Tree. He looked around trying to find someone of his family but he was alone in the room. Scott started searching for his present just to look at it like he did every year, but he couldn't find the present, which would have his name on it. He wanted to cry. „Did they really forget about me?“ he thought. But before he could ask himself more questions he heard steps on the stairs. Scott sat on the couch pretending that nothing happened and said quietly good morning, which had been ignored by his father who just walked by. Scott was really sad but he couldn't say that he was shocked. I mean, he felt sad, but he prepared himself that some day his family will forget about him. After breakfast Scott went straight to his room and locked the door. He lied down on his bed and started crying. He was just disappointed.

After some time someone threw a small rock at his window. Scott smiled because he knew who this was. He stood up and opened the window to see his friends with big smiles on their faces. He smiled back and waved to them. „Do you want to play? It was snowing at night.“ they asked and Scott laughed. „Sure just give me one minute.“ He replied and got dressed in some warm clothes. Then he jumped out of the window landing like a professional. „We can go now“ he said smiling already forgetting about his rude family and the present he didn't get. During the snowball fight they had the best time. After that four of them (Scott, Lily Sophia and Steve) had to go to eat dinner. I mean Lily, Sophia and Steve did. Nobody cared about Scott, but his friends had an idea. They made Scott go with them to the Sophia's house and they gave him a present. They knew what the situation in their friend's house was so they bought him a gift. Scott was so happy that he cried and he hugged his friends. (This story is ending with a sweet group cuddle)
